The story has again been started that the hard money democrats would pit Hon. W. H. English against Dan Voorhees for United States senator next winter. There is hanging in Benham's window an old piece of music entitled "Grant is the man," with a robust lithograph of that conquering hero on the title page. in the Country in Bankruptey.

The business community was startled this morning by hearing that Adams, Mansur & Co., proprietors of the largest retail carpet and wall paper house in the United States, had been compelled to file their petition in bankruptey. a great diminution in the volume of business transacted was experienced by Adams, Mansur & Co., and in addition they were badly crippled by the failure of a large number of debtors to settle their accounts. The amount carried on the books for delinquent customers, as shown by the schedules, is estimated at $40,000, though it will be rather over than under this sum. The immediate cause of filing the petition was a suit brought in the circuit court by the Indiana banking company against the firm on a protested acceptance of a $6,000 draft from Philadelphia, which was being pushed to judgment. Judge Julian would have rendered judgment this morning, had it not been for this step by the firm who determined to let all their creditors stand on the same footing. POLITICS AND RESUMPTION. Hon. John C. New Interviewed in Chicago. [Chicago Times.]

The Hon. John C. New Interviewed in Chicago. [Chicago Times.]

The Hon. John C. New, ex-treasurer of the United States, was at the Palmer house on yesterday with his family, en route to Green Lake, Wisconsin, where they propose to pass the summer. Mr. New expresses himself as heartily glad to be out of public life, "I never wanted any office," said he, "and never want another. There is a deal of inconvenience and hard labor about a public place, and no matter what you do you are sure to be abused. I'm not a politician in any sense, and I'm giving myself no special concern about politics. I've freed myself from business, and I'm going to rest. This is a good time for resting and waiting."

The conversation branched off to Indiana politics. Mr. New said the national movement had acquired strength in some few localities, as for example in the Terre Haute neighborhood; but that it would have no general effect upon the state at large. As to what the outcome of the election in the state would be, he was not sufficiently well posted to hazard a guess.

The prospect for a revival of business in Indiana seemed to him very bright. "Our crops are good, and people are feeling better everywhere. The belief is that with this fall will. this fall will come a general upward ten-dency. The near return to a specie basis is beginning to be felt for the better."

is beginning to be felt for the better."

"How do your people feel as the first of January approaches?"

"Well, there is a doubt in the minds of many as to whether specie payments can be maintained. I don't think there will be any difficulty myself. How it will affect national banks is a question which no man can foresee, but that is not a vital point either. The date once passed, I believe matters will move on steadily for the better."

The democrats unquestionably have a regular corruption bureau in full operation. Several broken down republican politicians are reported issuing therefrom with checks in hand.

St. Louis, July 20.—Notwithstanding the fine breeze from the west and a cloudy sky this morning, the temperature is warmer than yesterday. Only four cases were treated at the dispensary up to ten o'clock, two of which were more whisky than heat, one an old female graduate of the souphouse and workhouse, and the other a son of James S. Finney, and the other a son of James S. Finn and the other a son of James S. Finney, commission merchant, who, while riding on a street car, was attacked, but went to the dispensary himself, and was restored and sent home. The whole number of cases reported yesterday from all sources was only 29, nearly all of which were slight. Prof. Tice predicts that with the exception of a very few days we are to have exceedingly hot weather for the remainder of this month.

London, July 20.—The Russian unofficial press is more or less dissatisfied with the treaty before its conclusion. How Beaconsfield's Explanation is Re-London, July 20.—Paris and Vienna newspapers generally comment favorably upon Lord Beaconsfield's statement in explanation of the treaty of Berlin in the house of lords Thursday. The Italian government and conservative organs continue to attack England. The Italian radical papers do not notice the subject of English occupation of Cyprus, but exclusively devote their attention to Austria. The Standard's assertion that the Italian ambassador to Vienna had been to Rome on this object is denied. The ambassador went to Paris on a short leave, his visit being unconnected with politics.

DAN VOORHEES, interviewed, thinks the Potter investigation is rapidly running into the squirrel track which leads up a tree. He thinks likewise that he wants to misrepresent Indiana in the senate for six years to come; and lastly, that Thurman is the coming man of the democracy. WHEN Senator Morton was alive the Sentinel was careful enough as to what it said concerning him. Now that he is dead, with its ghoulish instincts it prowls around his grave to rake therefrom some thing in his record which may be tortured into an apology for the charlatan Voorhees, who is trying to be returned to the place Morton occupied. If the Sentinel has no respect for itself, it might have sufficient respect for truth and decency to know that lying about a dead man is as cowardly as it is mean.

THE removal of Alonzo B. Cornell from the New York custom house has caused a republication of the letter he wrote the president at the time of the promulgation of the office holders' order a year ago. It reviews Mr. Cornell's relations to the civil service order, shows that in calling the state convention to order he had the express authority of the acting secretary of the treasury, as well as the evidence that similar authority had been given by the postmaster general, and produces the subsequent demand for his immediate resignation under threat of dismissal. It concludes by quoting the president's pledges in his letter accepting the nomination, and leaving to the president the responsibility of any action he may think the circumstance warrant. It is arrogant and dictatorial in tone and disobedient in declaration and the wonder is the president did move the fat corruptionist at once.

Fiat Not Enough. If the fiat of the government alone could give value to paper, and by decree make it the equivalent of other property, then no other decree would be needed for its support. All that would be needed would be for the government to stamp on a piece of paper "This is one dollar," make this dollar a full legal tender, and the thing would be complete. But the advocates of fiat money know that this is not so, and hence they propose additional decrees to 1. They declare that the amount to be issued must be limited. The Terre Haute

Express grows indignant when accused of being in favor of "unlimited" paper issues. And they now propose that the amount shall be regulated by a per capita of the population. How they are to arrive at a basis s an open question, but the Express inti mates that when fixed it must be made unalterable by the constitution. All this is absurd. Do the "wants of trade" always remain the same? No. The Express has wasted columns to prove that the demand for money fluctuates, and therefore that there should be an "elastic" currency. There is no elasticity in a constitutional provision fixing the sum per head. Besides why should there be any limitation? If the more money, the more wealth, the more business, the greater stimulus to industry, why not go on expanding and multiplying wealth? Vanderbilt and Astor with their millions are not too rich in their own estimations; why can not the government "create money" sufficient to give every one a million of dollars, or even ten millions of them? Plainly because these "dollars' would be worthless. The Express knows this, and therefore it knows that its "fiat money" is a humbug, a mere trap to catch gulls. It knows that all the value the "fiat" of the government puts into money is the value of the services it renders, and that this is not unlimited by odds. Every admission that the issue must be limited is an admission that without this limit

2. Another device for the support of the fiat issue is that it shall be exchangeable for interest-bearing bonds. When the greenback was first issued it was so exchangeable. But under the pressure of the war expenditures this privilege was withdrawn after due notice. The intent of this provision was to furnish a means of withdrawing them from circulation, and if it had been restored at the close of the war they would all have been funded and specie payments restored long ago. And so Mr. Spaulding, who introduced the greenback bill, Mr. Newton Booth, and numerous others, desired to have done Some of them believed that by a system of interconversion with a low interest, goldbearing bond, the government could not only fund its greenbacks, but refund its dearer bonds as well. This sagacions plan the greenbackers seized upon and "improved," as the Express calls it, by emptying it of gold and proposing a "fiat's bond. A fiat greenback to be interconvertable with a fiat bond, perpetually. One piece of paper to be redeemed with another piece of paper, and this to be paid in the first piece again-a financial perpetual motion evolved out of fiat! Like the Hindoo cosmogeny they propose to rest their greenback world on the back of a bond elephant, and this to stand on nothing each to uphold the other.

the money would depreciate, and that

"fiat" would not sustain it.

These devices are crude enough but they recognize the fact that "fiat" will not do. CURRENT COMMENT.

The St. Louis republican thinks Grant's actual candidacy would make Casarism so far a sober probability that it would make the popular majority against the republican electors so overwhelming that not even his audacity would dare to dispute the verdict. There may be something in that and perhaps it will be just as well for the monarch ists to make their experiment, in 1880, as at any other time. The rebuke that a free people will give them will deter any similar attempt for a half century at least.

The truckling time-serving platform of the Missouri democrats has failed of its purpose The greenback party of that state refuses to be comforted thereby, and is daily gaining strength at the expense of the democracy The bourbon blandishments have failed en tirely. The Louisville Courier-Journal speaks these frank and truthful words:

Secretary Thompson deserves the respect of all parties for the business-like way in which he has conducted the naval department. He has made a thorough investigation of the Robesonian method of doing business, and has furnished the house naval committee with every facility to get at the frauds during Robeson's eight years of criminal extravagance. The result is a revelation of the way $182,000,000 of the public money was suran-$182,000,000 of the public money was squandered for the benefit of contractors, and left us with a mere shadow of a navy. The navy denartment has had a raking over, and many of Robeson's adroit tools have been given their walking papers, and to-day the department is the only one whose expenses are within the appropriation made.

We declare most unhestitatingly that Mr. Dayls has not spoken the sentiments of any respectable number of the southern people. DENS OF DEATH. A Tour Among the By-ways of New York. [New York Herald.]

Down Roosevelt street from Chatham, a stone's throw from the great street car thoroughfare of the sea side, and halfway between the two branches of the pro-posed elevated road, were the first houses visited. The street itself is wholly given over to filth. No pretence is maintained of preserving a current through the gutters, which are series of stagnant pools of reeking filth. Garbage lies around in heaps, while the streets are piled high with mire. Children play around the sidewalks, eating half decayed fruit, and smoking the butts of poor cigars, and by some miracle be-human understanding, seem well. A few doors from Chatham street Dr. Bruce pointed to a tumble down shanty having an alleyway beside it and a stable door beneath which trickled two little rills of manure. "In there," he said, "lives a family; it is also used as a stable, and I reported it to the board as totally unfit for human habitation. It is now condemned and is to be pulled down." We then noticed a group of children eating rotten peaches. No. 13 Roosevelt street is an ordinary ized city lot, across the extreme rear of which is built an ordinary tenement house, about fifteen feet deep and containing rooms for six families. In front of this is paved with blue stones. Into this court-yard runs an alley, perhaps six feet wide, while on the west side of the alley the space, about seventy by twenty feet, is oc-cupied by a tenement house, with halls leading into the alley.

On this single lot, 25 by 100 feet, with drainage so bad that filth trickled along the stones in the alley, "accommodations are provided for twenty-four families numbering at least one hundred souls. No. 18, a little further down the street, was one of the houses inhabited by Italian rag pickers and plaster cast makers. The entrance was through a low saloon, and in the rear was found a sort of barracks of slight wooden frames running lengthwise of the lot, and opening on a payed courtof the lot, and opening on a paved courtyard like all rear tenements. It was impossible to tell how many people lived there, for the people themselves did not know. On the flags in the court-yard one or two men lay asleep,, one or two more were assorting rags

and half a dozen Italian women dressed in rags and wearing handsome gold ear-rings sat knitting. They were all statuesque in appearance, and one of them was a woman of remarkable beauty. On a top floor tenement in this house was a very sick child, whose father and mother and a grandmother all talked together, explaining her condition and what they had done for her. The two rooms they lived in were full of what they used as furniture, and looked as if they had never been scrubbed out. In the halls were buckets and boxes of garbage and filth, and the stairs were slippery with dirt, yet Dr. Bruce said they were in much bet-ter condition than when he first went there, as they had been "cleaned up" by his or

I read with much interest and satisfaction in your column of last evening the the article upon fire protection for our city by the Holly system. In reference to the city of Indianapolis where the Holly system was introduced, you say that a controversy has arisen in regard to the efficiency of that system in the extinguishment of fires. The system in this city has been in use 13 years and during that time with only two or three executions has circultured. with only two or three exceptions has giv-

The exceptions referred to were previous to the introduction of the fire alarm telegraph, when it was difficult to communicate with the engineer at the works. The entire city in instant communication with the engineer and fire pressure can imme-

Upon the introduction of water mains and hydrants in the streets of our city, the five or six fire engines were thrown into disuse and subsequently sold, and no one wishes them back again. The yearly expresent contract for keeping in repair the instruments, battery, and line of fire alarm telegraph, water for city buildings and drinking foutains, and for fire purposes through the hydrants at about $75 each. s only the exceedingly low figure of $16,-

If we add to this the expense of running the fire department as reported by the chief engineer, of $4,096, we have a total of about $20,000 as the yearly cost of the est fire organization and protection in the state. If those in Indianapolis who are dissatisfied with or have fears of the efficiency of the Holly system will honor us with a visit, we assure them that no effort shall be wanting on our part to prove that with proper care and management it is the best and most reliable fire pro-

cussion occurred on the revenue trouble in South Carolina, where four internal reve-nue officials, while in search of Redmond the illicit distiller, killed in self-defense man named Ladd, in whose house Red-mend was concealed. The officers immeliately went to Greenville and gave them selves up. They were indicted for murder. An attempt was made to have the case transferred to the state court. This has been positively refused. The attorney general announced that he would direct the United States marshal to take out a writ of habeas corpus for the transfer of the prisoners. NEW YORK, July 17. Choice summer goods, consisting of melange for combination with plain goods. It has stripes composed of many bright colors, one of which is prominent in each piece of the goods; in one it is blue, in another gold, and so on. Striped goods are always fashionable for misses, but these rainbow-tinted gauzes will be em-ployed by ladies for drapery and trimmings. Bourette tissue, flecked with many gay colors on a dark ground is used for overskirt and drapery on the most delicate shades of pink and blue. Heavy fringe in mingled colors and cordings are used for trimming. Colored grenadines are represented in a variety of goods, among them is the brocade, or as it is termed, the sea-foam, also those with velvet, and lace stripes. Black silks and grenadines have been superseded to a great extent by col-ored fabrics, still handsome dresses of these materials are made for very stylladies. Bands of crepe embroidered in brilliant floss with variegated fringe to match are intro-duced for grenadine in-door toilets as well as for the little fichus of out-door wear Batiste is in great favor, especially the pressed crape-like goods; it is handsomely trimmed and worn with silk and velvet. Serviceable foulard silks of America manufacture are made into house sacks in place of the easily rumpled white mus-lins; cherry lace and bows of ribbon used in liberal profusion under them; very dressy and elegant. Light or dark colors are dressy, and elegant. Light or dark colors are selected according to individual taste. Pongee silks are purchased and used for the same purpose. Pardon of Murderers.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean publishes an rticle containing startling facts regarding the abuses of the pardoning power in Il-linois. The records of the penitentiary show that 314 murderers have been sent to Joliet in 20 years, of which 95 were for life. 25 for 25 years and upward as high as 34 years, 23 from 20 to 25 years, and the remainder for less terms. Over 50 of the life men have been pardoned by different governors, and a large number of others, amounting to 100 in all. The total numper of murders now at large in the state, who were tried and sentenced since 1858 is 162. Twonty-three have died or gone to the insane asylum. These figures indicare a wholesale system of pardoning, as the average time for a murderer sentenced to the Illinois penitentiary thus appears to be three years and six months.

But Pm only a part of God's great plan,
And Pil cheerfully do the best I can."

"What is the use," said a fleecy cloud,

They will hardly bend the lily proud,
Though caught in her cup of gold;
Yet I am part of God's great plan.
So my treasure I'll give as well as I can."

A child went merrily forth to play;
But a thought, like a silver thread,
Kept winding in and out all day
Through the happy, golden head.
Mother said, "Darling, do all you can,
For you are a part of God's great plan."

She knew no more than the glancing star,
Nor the cloud with its charice full.
How, why, and for what all strange things were,
She was only a child at school!
But she thought, "It is part of God's great plan
That even I should do all I can."

She helped a younger child along
When the road was rough to the feet,
And she sang her heart a little song
That we all thought passing sweet;
And her father, a weary, toil-worn man,
Said, "I will do likewise the best that I can,"

It is not generally found that a consideration of the miseries of others has much effect in smoothing the rough edge of one's own experiences; but if this were the case, our workingmen might live comfortably during the summer by a constant perusal of our consular reports from abroad, which call attention to the decline in wages, the lack of employment, the destitution and starvation among their foreign brethren, compared to which the distress in this country is inconsiderable. There is a good story told on Judge Holman of Indiana. At the time he was a member of the committee on appropri-ations, estimates for the bureau had been sent into the committee of printing and engraving, and for a certain branch of the work $200,000 was asked for. By a misprint the estimate was made to appear as $800,000. When Judge Holman ran his economic eye over the amount he said Well, we will cut this down to $600,000 it ought to be enough." Subsequently, when informed that $200,000 was all that was asked for, the judge, not at all abashed, said: "Well, I guess that is too much; we will cut it down to $150,000.—[Washington Star.

In India the "hot weather," or dry season, lasts from about March 15 to June 15, and the thermometer gradually rises till, from April 15 onward, it may register anywhere from 110° to 118° in the shade. These registrations are taken, not from thermometers hung anywhere against a wall or tree, but from thermometers placed where they are unaffected by the radiation from a heat-absorbing body, and are exposed only to the actual heat of the atmosphere. The tattie is the great institution of British India. It is a double-diamond frame of split bamboo, with the space he or British India. It is a double-diamond frame of split bamboo, with the space between the two frames loosely yet firmly padded with the roots of the cas-cus grass. These roots are porous and fragrant, and when moistened with water, emit their when moistened with water, emit their fragrance to the air.

During the "hot weather" there is always a wind blowing—a hot, burning blast, more or less strong, which sweeps over the arid plains thirsting for water. Sometimes it shifts about from point to point, but generally it is constant from the south, or southerly. All houses are built with French windows epening to the ground, and with these on all sides to admit every breeze and encourage a thorough ground, and with these on all sides to admit every breeze and encourage a thorough draught. Up near the ceilings are small windows built like the transoms over our doors, and closed or opened at will by means of cords. As the weather becomes warmer the "cns-cus tatties" are fitted to all the doors and lower windows; tubes for water are placed between each tattie or between two, and two or more coolies according to the size of the house are hired. Their duties are to provide a constant water supply for the tubes, to ke the tatties ever moist, and to trim ship, it were—i. e., to keep the draught fro end to end of the house with the wind. But there are days when there is breeze-when the fervor of the sun scorch es up even the energy of the simoom and leaves the whole atmosphere a still, breathless oven. To counteract this evil,

THE THERMANTIDOTE has been invented. It is a large box con taining an axle, which crosses from side to side; to this axle are fixed four to six fans, radiating from the center, and extending to within an inch from the fop, bottom and sides. The front end of this box is elongated into a window or door, and the remaining space is carefully boarded up around the tunnel and made as air-tight as possible. The open sides of the thermantidote is fitted with "cus-custatties," and a cistern is so arranged that a constant supply of water is given (by means of pierced troughs placed over them) to the tatties of the thermantidote, motor is a coolie who turns a crank at ached to the axle of the fan. To multiply the revolutions of this fan, a cogwheel attachment and belt are often re sorted to, but this requires more motor

But these means are insufficient to keep the atmosphere cool.

Punkahs are needed within. These are huge swinging fans, made of a wooden frame-work covered with canvas, to the wer edge of which is attached a heavy, deep fringe. These punkahs are slung to the beams of the roof by stout cords, and from one side a cane (rattan) passes out through a small hole in the wall to the outside or verandah of the house. Two or more of these fans may be connected to gether from room to room and kept con stantly swinging by the motor with the ever-present coolie.

Without the coolie India would not be habitable by the civilized European. He works hard with a patient, unwavering purpose—works well and cheaply. For $1 each a month he and his mate will keep the punkah ever swinging, and they rarely faint or fail. Sleep they do, and often at their post, but still without rein quishing their automatic labor.

With these varied appliances, the heat ed atmosphere, which causes the thermom-eter to register 115 and 118 degrees in the shade, is toned down to 80 degrees, 78 degrees and even 76 degrees. In such an at-mosphere one can breathe, move and live.

Let us picture to ourselves a European military or civil station. At 4:30 p. m. the air quivers with the long-drawn "dress call from the quarters of the various regiments. Outside the horse-keepers ar grooming their masters' horses, and the cooks are preparing tea, coffee, toast and eggs. Within doors the men are bathing and dressing for parade or drill, it military; if civilians, they are preparing for the morning ride with the ladies, who are also bathing and donning their riding habits. A cup of tea is taken, or coffee, and a site of toast—perhaps an egg, but not often. Then away to duty or to pleasure. By 6:30 a. m. all are wending their way homeward. By 7 a. m. they are all home, and seated in the verandah or "sub tegmine fagi, partaking of the chotchezori, or "little breakfast." This consists of tea, coffee, chocolate, toast, bread and butter, preserves, eggs and fruit of such kind as are preservable. This meal is drawn out to 8 and past, but at 9 a.m. every one who has no duty to perform out of doors is doffing society garments and getting into light marching order. The civilians are at their offices, the military officers are in their mess-house at break

In the very hottest weather the time is mostly spent lounging with extended legs on long-armed chairs, or lying on the broad of the back, in either case under the ceaseless punkah. In the hotest weather, the "door is closed" to any but the most intimate friend from 10 a.m. till 4 p.m. There is no prevarication or "no home" about it. From 4 to 5 p. m. is the general dressing hour, when most people take a bath and are ready for callers. At about 6 p. m. the drive is taken or a ride on horseback to the public gardens, where the band may be playing or the more energetic among the ladies ar playing croquet or indulging in the graceful practice of archery, with them are the less energetic, or ladies men. The more energetic men are away across country with their dogs, or are playing racquets, the great hot-weather game of the Anglo-Indians. At 7:30 p. m. the bugles of the various regiments are heard counding the "dress-for-dinner" call, and all are homeward bound.

Then comes dinner, the long drawn out meal of the day, and bed. But, as June grows older, every one is eagerly counting the days to the

Suddenly a mighty rushing wind is heard sweeping over the distant plains, at first it comes hot, fervid and burning, then a patter of heavy drops, then a rush of water pours from the open flood-gates of heaven that four long months have been sealed. "Open the doors and windows!" "Hurrah!" "Open some more champagne!" resounds through the reanimated throng, and in ten minutes the thermometer outside has fallen from 110 to 70. The rains have begun. The hot weather is over.

When the rain stops for a short time and the breeze dies away, a hot steaming atmosphere remains which is uncoolable and doubly trying; but these spell are not of long duration. During them are the many strokes among green hands, and the cholera breaks out. Against cholera there is no specific, but against sunstroke there is a sure guard. Wear a stout hat of white color, and texture impervious to the sun's rays, or wear a light pervious to the sun's rays, or wear a light straw hat covered with loose folds of gauze or cambric. New York never probably looked so vacant in July as during the present season. The stampede out of town during the hot weather has been more general than ever before, partly because accommodations in all classes of summer resorts are, as a rule cheaper than they have been for years, and partly because there is so little business to

What Carver Did. [New York Sun.]

What he accomplished required a much greater power of endurance; for Captain Bogardus used a ten-pound double barrel-ed shot gun, and raised it to his shoulder 5,000 balls, making 156 misses, a total of 5,156 shots To do this he raised the tenpound gun 2,578 times, an aggregate of 25,780 pounds, or a little over twelve tons. Or, Carver broke 5,500 balls and missed 712 balls. To do this he raised the ten-pound rifle to his shoulder 6,212 times, an aggregate of 62,120 pounds, or a little over thirty-one tons. He broke 5,500 balls in the time that Captain Bogardus took to break 5,000, and in doing so he lifted to his shoulder 36,340 pounds, or over eighteen tons more than the captain.

But the comparison is not complete The Winchester rifle throws out the shell and loads with a lever, the entire pressure coming upon the center finger of the right hand. The doctor worked this lever 6,212 times. The rifle expands with heat, and, when thus heated, requires an average pressure of forty pounds to each shot to work it. At this estimate the doctor must have moved 248,480 pounds with his mid-dle finger during the day. In point of both skill and endurance, his feat is cer-tainly unparalleled by any event in sporting annals, and it will probably remain unparalleled as long as bullets are mould-ed and guns discharged.

Mill Burned at Millersville

Yesterday at eleven o'clock the flouring mill of John Carlysle, situated near Mil-lersville, on Fall creek, took fire and was burned to the ground. Mr. Carlysle was beginning to add largely to his already prosperous business, and had promise of a better trade than has ever been done there, when the flames consumed his property and his hopes. There was a small insurance on the building, but none on the large amount of wheat in the mill, which was

The incidents are managed with skill and the humor of the sit-uations is irresistible. HARPERS' MAGAZINE. New York: Harper &

The August number of this magazine is one that has never been surpassed in the beauty or artistic excellence of its illustrations and the character of its reading matter. The engravings are all executed in the best style, and convey the most vivid impressions of "Life at the White Sulphur Springs," and "An Old-fashioned Spa," meaning Tunbridge Wells. "The Golden Age of Engraving" is beautifully embellished, as is also "Birds and Plunage." The short stories and sketches are admirably suited to the season, while the editorial department is well sustained. There is a marked improvement in paper and press work. The famous magazine is becoming as beautiful as it is useful. The August number of this magazine is and press work. The famous magazine is becoming as beautiful as it is useful.

Lippincott's for August opens with "Along the Danube," by Edward King, and both text and illustrations are spirited and lively. Edward H. Knight, one of our commissioners to the Paris exposition gives an illustrated paper on the buildings and grounds. A pleasant article is a "A Welsh watering-place," by Wirt Sikes; "The British soldier," by Henry James, jr., in which the exqisite irony and delicate powers of the writer are employed on a most attractive theme. "Sambo: a man and a brother," by S. A. Shields, contains some pictures of negro character from personal observation. Mrs. Hooper sketches the career of the Empress Eugenie with much animation, and Mrs. Howland gives an account of a new system of musical notation. count of a new system of musical notation. There is a striking story in the number entitled "A Saxon God."

SUNDAY AFTERNOON—A Magazine for the Household, Springfield, Massachusetts.

"Sunday Afternoon" for August has a readable variety, well adapted to the hot Sunday afternoons of the season. E. E. Hale's serial makes good progress; "Chips from a Northwestern Log," by Campbell Wheaton, has a second installment, giving a vivid account of a settler's experience with Indians, and dealing with the Indians. a vivid account of a settler's experience with Indians, and dealing with the Indian question; and a new serial, "Fishers of Men," is begun, which promises well. There are two good complete stories, "A Bit of Flotsam," which gives vividly a bit of summer life at the seaside; and "Beppo," telling of a little Italian street violinist's career. "Forecastle Jack" pictures the various ways in which Jack Taris treated at sea, mostly had ways. Other tures the various ways in which Jack Tar is treated at sea, mostly bad ways. Other light articles are "The Badness of Hymns," by Frederick M. Bird, and "Incidents of the Greek Revolution," by S. G. W. Who is Boss; the Commissi iff Pressly?

The publication of the conversation between Sheriff Pressly and Commissioner Worman, in yestereay's News, stirred up the animals, and immediately upon readit President Remy and Mr. Rubush worked up the following order:

Whereas, It has come to our knowledge that John T. Pressly, sheriff of Marion county, has refused to allow O. A. Hazzard, assistant county astorney, permission to enter Marion county justices, and, torney, permission to enter Marion county juliand.

Whereas, He has refused to allow said attorney to see and converse with the prisoners; and.
Whereas, He has refused to allow said attorney to know the number of prisoners confined in said juli, except as is shown by the juli records, it is thereby ordered by the undersigned commissioners of Marion county, that O. A. Hazzard be hereby empowered with authority to enter said juli, or any department thereof wherein prisoners are comfined, at any time between the hours of 8 o'clock a. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. during his continuance by us as assistant county attorney.

It is further erdered that said attorney be hereby empowered with authority to see, count and converse with any prisoner or any number of prisoners confined in said juli, or who may hereafter be confined therein during said attorney's continuance by us as aforesaid.

It is further ordered that said attorney be hereby empowered with authority to examine the Marrion county juli records at any time between the hours of 8 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m., during the said attorney's continuance by us as aforesaid, All of which is fully ordered and adjudged by the undersigned commissioners. Of Marion, county, to take effect from and after this 19th day of July, 1878.

To this Commissioner Worman dissented, advising that the sheriff be requested to admit Mr. Hazzard, but the other members of the board determined to show their autocratic power by issuing the above

The Reformatory Sewer in Court. Under instructions from the attorney general's office, the United States attorney will file a bill against the trustees or man-agement of the Indiana state reformatory for creating and maintaining a nuisance in using Crooked Run as a sewer for the refermatory. Into this open run, which in the summer is dry, the reformatory empties all the filth and waste of the prison. The Run runs through the arse-nal grounds, and its use as a sewer renders the occupancy of the arsenal grounds almost intolerable. There is almost always some of the command sick with malarial complaints, and the doctors give this "sewer" as the producing cause. A large laundry is operated at the reformatory and all the waste from it is also emptied into the run. The attention of the board of health, the board of trustees of the reformatory, and the mayor of the city has been called of the reformatory, and the mayor of the city has been called to this matter, and assurances were given, that its use as a sewer would be stopped, but nothing has been done. An open sewer this hot weather is anything but a pleasant neighbor. At one time the citizens residing in the vicinity joined in a petition with Capt. Arnold, commandant of the arsenal, asking the abatement of the nuisance.

The United States attorney has written Governor Williams respectfully asking him to call the attention of the management to the complaint made, and request ing an abatement of the use of the run. The United States attorney thinks the governor will take such steps as to obviate the necessity of litigating the matter.

J. EASTERBROOK,

President of the State Normal School.

He has a comprehensive mind, takes broad views of the work of education, is thoroughly up with the best thought of the day on educational matters, and, moreover, is free and original in his opinions.

Take him for all in all I could not recommend a better man in Michigan. W. S. PERBY, Superintendent of the Ann Arbor schools Superintendent of the Ann Arbor schools.

I will say in regard to Mr. Tarbell that I indorse him without any qualification or reservation. He is a thoroughly upright, prudent and scholarly man. He is an earnest and successful educator, and as such enjoys the full confidence and high esteem of the people of Michigan.

Superintendent of Detroit Schools.

In addition to the above communica-tions the chairman of the committee visited Lansing and spent a day with the leading educators of Michigan, and one day at East Saginaw, where Mr. Tarbell was school superintendent for six years. All he learned was strongly confirmatory of the good reports received through other sources.

School Commissioners.

The school board met last night. Bills amounting to $1,593.12 were ordered paid. The resignations of Misses Nettie Noland and Emily Johnson, teachers, were accepted. The claim of Mrs. Z. McCoy for cepted. The claim of Mrs. Z. McCoy for $104 back pay, was referred to the committee on judiciary. The painting of portions of high school building was let to Byron Scribner at $136.50. School building No. 5 was ordered improved at a cost ing No. 5 was ordered improved at a cost of $800. S. H. Thomas was given contract to paint roof of school building No. 2 at forty cents per square of 100 feet. Prof. Horace S. Tarbell, present superintendent of public instruction for the state of Michigan, and Prof. J. J. Mills, of this city, were voted for the office of superintendent of city schools. The former was elected, receiving 8 retains the latest 1 Mills. eiving 8 votes, the later 1. Hiram J. receiving 8 votes, the later 1. Hiram J. Craft, expert accountant, presented a statement showing the total school revenue for the year ending May 15, 1878, to have been $166,503. He also reported a balance of $2,071.90 due the board from the city treasurer on account of poll tax collected during the past four years. Mr. Craft recommended a change in the form of the city tax duplicate, and on motion of Mr. Merritt the secretary was directed to notify the city clerk that the board will hereafter insist that he shall place upon the after insist that he shall place upon the tax duplicate the tax levy of the board in separate columns from the other city taxes, so that the amount collected for the board may be accurately ascertained. The board volunteered the services of one man for one month to assist in making the necessary changes.

The treasurer of the board was directed to call on the city treasurer for fhe poll-tax balance above referred to. Adjourned.

The Weather. The highest temperature marked here yesterday was 90°, the lowest 69°. At 7 a. m. the thermometer stood at 73°, and at 2 p. m. at 88°. To-day there is an attempt to return to the severe heat of day before yesterday, and at 2 o'clock with the thermometer marking 97° the yesterday, and at 2 o'clock with the thermometer marking 97°, the attempt bids fair to culminate in success. At 8 a. m. to-day the temperature was told by Browning & Sloan's thermom-eter at 90°, and had it not been that there has been a fine breeze stirring all day, nu-merous cases of sunstroke and prostrations from heat would have been ready for the chronicler.

The Deadfall.

The combination pool deadfall at Chapin & Gore's establishment, the scene of the murder of the gambler, Geo. Leggett, under the management of Bob. Smith, the most notorious gambler in the city, will not close this evening. The promise given by Smith to Secretary Horton, of the Y. M. C. A., has been re-called, and the pool selling will go on. Smith and his backers say that no law in Indiana can reach them, and the Y. M. C. A. can do their d—dest. That organization, new that as the deadfall has given the challenge, proposes to make things exceedingly troublesome for the combination, and to have the satisfaction of discovering in the courts whether such a thieving, demoralizing business can be continued in this city. Yesterday's receipts at the deadfall were much smaller than those of the day before, owing to the exposure in The News, and if a policeman were placed at the door of this magnificent dive many of the younger victims would be deterred from entering it and a still larger amount of money kept from going into the pockets of the unprincipled deadfallers. Mayor Caven, City Attorney Hawkins and Marshal Harvey have not been heard from. The grand jury will not be in session until the first of next month. It appears to be the policy of the city officials to let the game go on and allow the onus of interfering with the deadfall, which has political influence, to rest upon the grand jury. In the meantime the game will gather in money as fast as possible, and when the grand jury meets Bob Smlth will shut up shop and skip to other pastures. Lawns and Organdies.
